Hindenburg Meets With Obstacles in Crossing the Dvina River in Face of Heavy Artillery Bombardment.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Paris, Sept. 7.—In a message to President Poincaré, Emperor Nicholas announced he had placed himself in command of all the Russian armies.
Since the outbreak of the war, Emperor Nicholas, cousin of Emperor Poincaré, has been in command of the armies of Russia. In this capacity he has achieved fame. Although the grand duke's armies have suffered long series of reverses since the beginning of the great Austro-German offensive movement in May, their leader has been credited with conspicuous strategic successes during this period, as well as in the earlier part of the war, when he was leading his armies forward victoriously.

Riga as Objective Point.
London, Sept. 7.—The immediate objective of the Austro-German campaign in Russia becomes clearer with the growing indications that the invaders need the Baltic port of Riga, not only as a base for present operations in the direction of Petrograd, but as winter quarters in case the attempt to reach the Russian capital should be postponed until next spring.

Difficulty Bridging Dvina.
Field Marshal Von Hindenburg is experiencing great difficulty in bridging the portion of the Dvina held by the Germans. The current of the river is too swift for the construction of pontoon bridges, under the Russian artillery fire. As the rainy season comes on it will be more difficult for the invaders to bring up supplies for their advance forces, and consequently the seizure of Riga as a base, becomes more vital to the success of Von Hindenburg's plans.

The urgent necessity of capturing Riga is indicated in an army order, which a Paris newspaper credits to General Von Roon. The general orders his troops to make one more great effort to capture the port, making it their winter home, preparatory to marching to Petrograd next spring.

Teutonic Drive Checked.
Along the other sectors of the eastern front, the impetus of the Austro-German rush has been considerably checked. Vienna admits that the German counter attacks by the Russians have brought the advance along the Galician border almost to a standstill.

The right wing of the Russian forces is said to be contemplating an attack on Kiev, with Field Marshal Von Mackensen in command.

Panics in Petrograd.
Berlin, wireless to Saville, Sept.
7.—The Overseas News Agency says that a panic was caused in Petrograd yesterday by reports that the Russian Baltic port of Riga had been captured.

The Lokal Anzeiger publishes private telegrams from Stockholm, Sweden, saying that the Russian capital was thrown into confusion by reports that the positions on the Dvina line had been captured, that the Russian armies had been destroyed, that Riga had been taken, and that the German advance upon the capital would be no longer hampered. Immense crowds gathered in front of newspaper offices. There was great excitement and many arrests were made.

Toward evening the newspaper published extras containing official denials of these rumors, and saying that Russian defensive positions were still intact. However, the spread of panic at the capital and reports of Emperor Nicholas' trip to the front, which only a pretense to veil the return of the emperor's residence to the interior.

Artillery Fighting in France.
Paris, Sept. 7.—Last night saw a continuance of violent artillery exchanges along the French line according to the official communication given out today. The fighting took place around Souchez and near Neuville, and it was particularly severe in the region of Roye, on the Marne and Quenneviers and near Nouvron.

Wisconsin will be in attendance at the annual opening of the gathering in the First M. E. church here tonight.

begin at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning ing to a close next Monday.

The entertainment of conference church members, and it is expected the conference will be larger from the standpoint of attendance than any heretofore in the state.

H. Reed will proffer the good will of the Racine Commercial club; Rev. C.

liams of Janesville will respond for the conference.

STATION BIG FORCE ALONG THE BORDER NEAR BROWNSVILLE

Four Thousand United States Soldiers Are Patrolling Wilds of Border Country Infested By Mexican Outlaws.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Brownsville, Sept. 7.—The disposition of troops in the Brownsville section continued today. By mid-week there will be 4,000 men, cavalry, infantry, artillery, signal and aero corps in this district, a command large enough, it is hoped, to exert sufficient moral force to make the use of physical force unnecessary in maintaining quiet in the border counties with their seventy per cent of Mexican population.

The troops are patrolling a territory nearly the size of Maine, which contains only one city, Brownsville. It is a country without roads, except near the small towns. Great spaces are covered with brush, traversed by trails that only experienced guides can follow. Nearly everything in this brush beats through, some of which pierce leather. Most of the guides who know these trails are Mexicans, and with few exceptions neither army officers nor state and county officials know whether these Mexicans are loyal American citizens or friends of bandits or revolutionists.

How to distinguish between loyal and disloyal Mexican citizens is an unsolved problem, and lacking this knowledge is a menace to international relations. Because they have been unable to know what Mexicans are their friends, Americans of this section hear and prepare to take action on the wildest rumors.

Some of them come to believe even that other nations are trying to invade Mexico with the United States. A few credit reports that Americans who wish intervention are behind most of the bandit outbreaks. It is pointed out as significant that of the railroad burnings, or attempts at burnings, bandits have waited until trains were all passed and there would be little danger of serious consequences.

In the two months that the bandits began operating four Americans have been murdered. Two have been killed at Sebastian by Mexicans, who were their personal enemies. Apparently the element of racial revenge did not enter into these killings until last week's murder of two Americans near Benito. It is now established that two Americans were dragged possibly after they were dead, in retaliation for some picture postal card which had been spread over all northeast Mexico.

Ready for Emergency.
Washington, Sept. 7.—A day's session of raiding on the lower Rio Grande and announcement that General Carranza had ordered his commander at Matamoros to co-operate in the campaign against Mexican bandits lead officials here to believe that the gravity of border situation had somewhat improved. The 4,000 American troops in the vicinity had orders, however, to handle any emergency.

ably be only able to pay their way the activities of the Ministry of Munitions

RELIGIOUS PROCESSION IN PETROGRAD: PRAYERS FOR VICTORY

AMERICAN BANKERS CONVENE AT SEATTLE

Country's Great Experts on Finances Offer Solution For Many Banking Problems.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Seattle, Wash., Sept. 7.—Means whereby the savings banks of the country might do away with the provision that calls for advance notice before a depositor withdraws his money were advocated in an address by George E. Edwards, a New York savings bank president, before the Savings Bank Section of the American Bankers' Association convention here today.

The solution of the problem, he contended, was in allowing savings banks to invest in more liquid securities. Banks, he continued, were not developed from the fear of depositors that they would not ultimately get their money from the banks, but from the fear that they would not be able to get the money just when they wanted it.

"Not only in fairness to depositors, but as a matter of policy, would it not be far wiser to invest a portion of our funds in short-term loans, of the character generally referred to as liquid, and in time of emergency depend upon such loans rather than upon the required notices of withdrawal." The entrance of the Federal Reserve banks into our financial system did away with one unfortunate necessity—the clearing house certificate.
That other unfortunate necessity—notice of withdrawal from the depositors—should have passed away by virtue of the same measure, but as an aid in arriving at a plan it seems essential:

First: That the Federal reserve banks should be given power to accept the collateral of savings banks for currency. This may be done through member banks authorized to act as intermediaries.

Second: That State laws should be enacted permitting investment by savings banks in certain securities acceptable to the Federal Reserve Board.

"That savings banks would derive no benefits from direct membership in the Federal reserve system is clear. The Federal reserve law was designed with a commercial object, and as such it is the business of do not transact a general commercial business, they can derive no benefit from actual membership. If their activity can be made liquid they will be free from fear of a run, and in turbulent periods would not have to depend on depositary banks or rely upon the extension of the time of payment afforded by notices of withdrawal."

"It is to be hoped that Congress, which expects, through the instru-mentality of the Federal reserve system, to make the country panic proof by several states will pass laws whereby the demands of millions of savings bank depositors will be provided for. Such laws will make for batter banks and that unfortunate notice of withdrawal—like the clearing house certificate, will be a thing of the past."

POLICE SEARCH FOR ENEMIES OF JUDGE

Persons Unfriendly Toward Providence Jurist Are Traced In Effort to Find Murder Clew.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Providence, Sept. 7.—Efforts were made by authorities today to trace movement of persons alleged to have shown unfriendliness toward Justice Knowles of the eighth district court, who was murdered at North Scituate yesterday. Early today no arrest has been made. The theory to which police attached importance was that the justice was shot by some one who was in fear of prosecution as result of Justice Knowles' activities in trying to bring about punishment of violators of the fish and game laws.
A search for one suspect during the night was without result. It was announced today the body of Justice Knowles would be taken to his home at Huntingport, Ohio, for burial.

East Side I. O. O. F. hall tonight at eight o'clock. Initiation service will be scheduled.

ROBBERY ATTEMPT AT CAPELLE HOME

Thieves Interrupted While Cutting Out Pane of Glass in Window of Door.

A daring attempt to rob the residence of Fred Capelle, 521 South Third street last evening between nine and ten o'clock, was frustrated by the unexpected arrival of a servant, who evidently frightened the thief away while trying to enter the door. When the family returned later, attention was drawn to the presence of shavings on the porch and an investigation revealed the fact that a thief had tried to carve out a pane of glass in a French window of the door. By taking out the glass the thief sought to unlock the door from the inside and enter the house and search to his contentment while all were away.

This morning the police were divided in their opinion whether the attempt at burglary was made by two men in an automobile who were in the city Sunday and Monday or that the job was done by a "Third Ward Rafid" known as the "Third Ward Rafid."

Sunday and Monday two young men between the ages of 22 and 25 years were in the city with a small blue colored touring car, equipped with wire wheels. At one residence on Monday, but a few blocks distant from the Capelle home, they stopped and asked many questions regarding the clearing house certificate. This excited the suspicion of the police this morning. The car had an Illinois number. One man had a tan coat, cap and wore glasses. The other was dark wore a mixed overcoat and felt hat. Search is being made to find these men today by the police.

Yesterday Chief of Police Champion and Fred Gilman of Evanston, Ill., were at Sycamore, Illinois, to question an alleged thief named A. E.
Rice, who is in custody at the Sycamore jail. He was caught coming out of a residence which it is alleged he robbed. On his persons and in two handbags the Illinois authorities found a complete burglar's equipment, including a loaded revolver, four snits of clothes, a change of shoes, four hats, which burglars use to escape identity.

Two gentlemen's watches, four rings with the sets removed and a gold-sited bottle, nearly full of valuable precious stones, which the thieves were taken from rings. The thought were taken from rings. The other would amount up into the hundreds of dollars as there were many rubies and several diamonds. The jewelry was carefully inspected by Chief Champion, but none of it was identified as being stolen from here.
The man refused to talk to Chief Champion or Gilman or answer their questions.

ADAMS QUILTS PLACE ON TAX COMMISSION

Presents His Resignation to Gov. Phillip Today Although Term Did Not Expire Until 1919.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 7.—Prof. T. S.
Adams, a member of the state tax commission, presented his resignation to Gov. Philip today. He will join the faculty of Cornell university, his services in the new position beginning Oct. 1 at the opening of the college year. Commissioner Adams had nearly four years of his term to serve when his resignation was presented. He was appointed in May, 1911, by Gov. McGovern, and his term would have expired in 1919. There is no intimation at the executive office as to who will be selected to fill the vacancy.

At a meeting of the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin three weeks ago, Prof. Adams was given a leave of absence of one year from the teaching force. At Cornell he had given instruction in labor problems and taxation matters and will probably do special consulting work to some extent.

Prof. Adams was awarded his doctorate by Johns Hopkins university in 1896. He has held positions as associate professor and later as professor of political economy at the university of Wisconsin. He has conducted many important investigations along taxation and labor lines, both for the state and national government and in 1912 was elected secretary of the National Tax association. He is the author of a book entitled, "Taxation in Maryland," with Helen L. Sumner he wrote "Labor Problems" and with Prof. E. T. Rely a book on "Outlines of Economics." Prof. Adams is now termined about moving his family to the east, and will probably maintain his home on University Heights here.

SMALL GIRL BITTEN BY DOG ON SUNDAY

Beatrice Bissell, the three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bissell, 413 Locust street, was severely bitten by a dog owned by Lawrence Hanson, Sunday morning, but no serious results or infections have resulted from the two wounds. The little girl was playing with the dog and was discovered by her father, crying from pain, when the animal bit the top of the child's head between her jaws. The dog had bit her on the cheek and marks on the inside of the girl's mouth show that the animal had his upper jaw inside of the child's mouth and the lower teeth clamped on the cheek. There was a ragged wound on the child's cheek and a rash on the top of the head.
Dr. Fred Sutherland was called, and so far the babe has shown any ill effects of the bite and it is thought the dog was in a healthy condition.

MRS. OGDEN ARMOUR TELLS OF STRUGGLE WITH TWO ROBBERS

Wife of Chicago Millionaire Packer Grapples Daring Thief Who Takes Jewels Worth $3,385.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, Sept. 7.—Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, wife of the millionaire packer, today related the story of her experience last night with two masked and armed robbers who looted the Armour residence, 4724 Michigan avenue, of valuable jewels. The pearl necklace for which Mr. Armour was obliged to pay $8,800 customs duties when he brought it to this country from France in 1901 is believed by the police to have been the loot sought by the robbers.

The necklace was valued by government at more than $15,000. The jewelry stolen by robbers consisted mainly of diamonds. A pocketbook containing $75 is the only cash they got.

A corrected list of the jewelry stolen by the bandits who last night attacked Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, wife of the millionaire packer, was given out today, including $75 in currency, the value of the booty was given as $3,385 dollars.

No arrests were made during the forenoon, nor was any clue of the men except Mrs. Armour's description of the robbers discovered.

Mrs. Armour Fights Robber.
Mrs. Armour, although stunned for a moment by a blow on the head with a "billy" through the hand to hand with one of the robbers. She grasped the barrel of the revolver thrust into her face, threw it over her head and began to struggle with the men, calling an alarm to her servants.

Mrs. Armour had retired for the night and not more than half an hour had passed when a knock was heard at her door. She called her maid, a man answered in a falsetto voice.
Fearing some wrong, she threw open the door and stood face to face with a masked robber. His companion in the meantime had overpowered three maids.

"I tried to shut the door," Mrs. Armour said today, "but the man thrust his foot into the opening, and pressed a revolver into my face."
"I seized the barrel of the weapon and pushed it over my head. Then I tried to push the door shut, but he held himself against the door, and as it did not open, he opened a billy, bringing it down on my head."

"I called for help, but the three servants were confronted by the second robber and forced into the room with him. One of the robbers asked where I had been, and I replied to my Lake Forest home."

Orders Jewels Given Up.
"Bring all your diamonds?" he asked.
"No, I left most of my jewels up there."
"I'll knock your teeth down your throat if you don't tell me where the stuff is," the robber said.

While Mrs. Armour and her maids were held in a corner of her room under threat of death to any who moved, one of the robbers swept the dresser and opened the drawers. The men went downstairs and through the back door. The telephone wires had been cut to prevent giving alarm.

MORE LOSSES AT SEA

Berlin Claims That British Cruiser Was Destroyed—French Steamer Bordeaux Sent to Bottom.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Sept. 7.—Commanding officers of the sunken liner Hesperian in joint affidavit forwarded to state department today declared that from fragments of steel which fell on the deck, it was "undoubtedly" shown that the ship was sunk by torpedo. The total loss of life was twenty-six persons.

Doubt Still Exists.
Today's official dispatches still left in doubt, whether the Allen liner Hesperian was sunk by a torpedo or mine. The state department and the White House continue to delay any action or decision.

May Change Attitude.
There is a strong possibility that the United States may change its attitude toward what constitutes arming merchant vessel, and in the light of development of submarine warfare may hold that mounting of small defense guns, only heretofore considered as not arming a ship, may be considered armament, which will remove the vessel from the non-combatant class.

British Cruiser Sunk.
Berlin, Sept. 7.—The admiralty marine U-27 sank a small British cruiser several weeks ago. The U-27 probably lost.

SINKING OF STEAMER DICTATOR REPORTED

Central News Gives Account of Torpedoing of Harrison Line Boat—Crew of 42 Landed Safely.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, Sept. 7.—The Central News says that the Harrison Line steamship Dictator, was sunk several days ago and her crew of forty-two was landed without casualties.
There is no confirmation of this report.

Under the recent ruling of the British admiralty details concerning sinking of vessels by submarines are withheld, but the implication of the foregoing dispatch is that the Dictator was attacked and sunk in the British war zone about the British Isles.

The Harrison Line steamer, Dictator, 4,115 tons gross, and owned in Liverpool, sailed from Pernambuco, Brazil, on August 31st for Cabanero, Brazil. Her subsequent movements have not been recorded, but as she requires about seventeen days for voyage to England, she could not have reached the war zone several days ago. It is possible that some other Harrison Line steamer or vessel named Dictator of which there are several, has been sunk.

FOREIGNER FAILS TO REPORT TO STATION ON THE POLICE ORDER

Sunday, when one of the foreigners gave his promise to return to report to the police station, he escaped being kept in jail over Labor Day. So far he has also escaped going to court.
Chief Champion this morning stated that the man, thought to have been an Italian, failed to keep his promise and explain the fight which took place in the house on North Jackson street Saturday night. It appears that the foreigner who was slashed about the face and head attempted to force his way into another's house, causing the fractures with the hatchet. Italian workmen protested that the men were Polish in nationality, this morning and an injustice had been done their nationality.

ENGINEER APPROVES OF CEMENT PAVEMENT

Expert on Cement Construction Work Inspects Paving Now Under Way at Edgerton.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Edgerton, Sept. 7.—C. W. Pierce, a civil engineer, and an inspector for a cement company, who was a visitor in this city recently, inspected the cement paving work which has been done, as well as that which is now in progress. He expressed his entire approval of the pavement which is being constructed, declaring that it compares favorably with any similar work which he has seen. He also was surprised that the work was being accomplished at such a moderate cost, $1.20 a square yard, while in Madison the same class of work costs $1.35. Mr. Pierce cited instances where the cost was higher than in Madison. He also complimented the city engineer and city council on the general appearance of the pavements of this city.

STEAMSHIP TONNAGE VALUE COMMANDS SENSATIONAL PRICE WITH WAR ACTIVITY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE] Liverpool, Sept. 7.—The upward trend of steamship values is well maintained especially for tonnage suitable for liner service, the dearth of such boats becoming more and more marked. The absorption of all available labor into naval shipbuilding and munition work here as well as in France, Russia and Italy, has been complete, and shipbuilders are unable to accept orders for new tonnage with any prospect of making delivery, so that sellers can get almost any price they ask for available boats. The North German Steamer Schlesien which sold at auction in January for $2,000,000 has just been sold for over 100,000 pounds.

ATTENDANCE TOTALS AT SCHOOLS IS HIGH

OVER 2,600 PUPILS COMMENCE DUTIES AT PUBLIC AND PAROCHIAL SCHOOLS TODAY.

2,800 MAY BE REACHED

Many More Expected to Enroll Before End of Week.—High School Opens With 455 Students.

A total of 2,621 children, from kindergarten to high school ages, commenced school today in the public or parochial schools in this city. This number is a big increase over past years, and predictions are that the 2,800 mark will be reached before long, many more pupils are expected to enter this week and next. Out of the 2,621 students, 1,596 are registered in the nine public graded schools, the children being divided as follows: Adams, 27; Lincoln, 143; Grant, 102; Jackson, 50; Jefferson, 377; Lincoln, 125; Washington, 269; Webster, 132; Garfield, 106. At the three parochial schools a total of 505 pupils are enrolled. St. Joseph's convent it is estimated that 250 children, if not more, were in their seats this morning. About 175 were present at the St. Mary's school, and about eighty at the St. Paul's German school.

The high school this morning 455 students, including a record number of new pupils, were in their seats, completely filling the spacious hall, with some students forced to stand. By the end of the week a score or more students are expected to enroll, bringing the total closer to the prediction that five hundred would attend the coming year.

The faculty at the high school is larger than ever. The list is made up of the following names, making up the entire teaching force at the higher institution: John Arbuthnot, science; N. Beth Baker, domestic science; W. C. Baker, domestic science; Alice Donnelly, Latin; J. R. Gruenewald, commercial; E. B. Keck, manual training; D. D. Kannon, commercial; Grace Matthews, domestic science; W. C. Mott, domestic science; Sarah O'Hara, history; Marie Royce, domestic science; Principal J. T. Shear, history and public speaking; Gertrude Simmons, English; George Sprague, science; Fred H. Wade, physical training; W. A. Werrell, manual training; A. B. West, geometry and agriculture; Helen Whitney, algebra; Caroline Zeisinger, German; and Gertrude Zeisinger, English. Miss Emily Sewell will act as musical instructor in the city with Mrs. Oscar Halverson the drawing teacher.

At the industrial school, sixty-five students, twenty of whom are girls, enrolled in the all-day industrial school today at the Lincoln building. This enrollment is more than the principal, C. F. Hill, can accommodate, which means that more room will have to be obtained. A waiting list of twenty has been established for the past twenty-four hours, and is in the hands of Superintendent H. C. Buell at the high school building.

The school is divided into three sections with about one hundred pupils in each. Pupils are required to take six hours of work daily, three hours of which is academic work, the other three hours being devoted to shop work or domestic science. Morning and evening classes are held from 7:30 to 9:30, allowing the graded school boys to come and work in the afternoon. As the cooking facilities are limited, the students are accommodated in this department.

The continuation school, where all children between the ages of sixteen and seventeen, which are employed, must take four hours of work each week, will enroll large numbers, it is believed.

The program as arranged at the present time gives to the boys two afternoons weekly from two until six o'clock, simple mechanics, taught by R. J. Manning. This instruction includes pipe fitting, pump work, drill pressing, wood turning and electric bell wiring. On Tuesday from two until six the boys will be given mechanical work, on Monday, commercial work, and on Thursday telegraphy, taught by Frank Mohan of the Western Union Telegraph company.

For the girls in the continuation school, sewing will be taught on Monday from eight until twelve; cooking on Tuesday at the same hours; cooking and sewing on Wednesday at the same hours; Monday afternoon from two until six salesmanship will be taught the girls by Miss Gager, teacher at the Lincoln school, who spent the week-end at Milwaukee learning the fine points of salesmanship.

The teachers not already named in the continuation and industrial schools are Miss Grace Munroe of Trafalgar, who is to instruct the seventh and eighth grade students in academic work; H. R. Dutcher of Whitewater Normal school, instructing fourth, fifth and sixth grade boys in academic work; and also instructing the seventh and eighth grade boys in the all day procedure of work. Miss Laymen of Hubbard Woods, North Chicago, will assist in the work.

All study in these schools will be divided, so that the pupils will receive a good share of academic work.

DEATH TAKES VICTIM ON DOWNTOWN STREET

Acil E. Cutts Drops Dead of Heart Disease on North Main Street Today at 9:30 O'clock.

Acil E. Cutts, age 54 years, a retired farmer, living with his son, Earl Cutts, at 233 North Franklin street, dropped dead at 9:30 o'clock this morning in front of the C. L. Gums & Co. grocery store, at 24 North Main street. An attack of heart disease was the cause of his death.

The banquet will be attended by about seventy-five people, including the members of the old board of directors, the present board and the sustaining members, all of whom will be invited guests. The menu has been planned by the wives of the present board members and will be served at six-thirty by Mrs. Bowerman as caterer, assisted by a dozen young ladies.

A pleasing program will be given, including solos by George Hatch and Miss Florence Bresce and readings by Miss Evelyn Welsh. Other plans for entertainment have been made, and there is every indication that the evening will be a most pleasant one. The banquet will be served in the auditorium, after which the program will be heard.

There was no other weapon in his belt, and it never occurred to me that he might possess another secreted in his jacket; nor did I realize the desperate hatred of me which gave him reckless courage. What to do with the fellow obsessed my mind; I possessed nothing to securely bind him with; I could not leave him free, nor had I any desire to take him along with me. He settled the problem himself. Suddenly, his arms above his head, his eyes on mine, he kicked viciously, the heavy shoe striking my wrist, sending the revolver in a spinning into the grass a dozen feet away. With almost the same movement he was tugging at his jacket pocket. I saw the gleam of steel, and gripped his fingers just in time; my other hand, numbed by the blow dealt me, was, for the instant, useless, yet I struck him with my elbow full in the face. I had no grip that would hold, yet it tangled the revolver in the folds of cloth so he could not draw, and, with a snarl of baffled rage, he tore his fingers loose, and clutched at my throat with both hands. Back and forth we swayed on the very edge of the ravine, kept from plunging down into the black depths by the intervening fringe of trees, savagely contending for the mastery. That he was a trained athlete, acquainted with every wrestler's trick, I knew in a moment, yet this gave me little fear—for this was to be a fight, no wrestling game. Strong, quick, agile as the man was, I never doubted I was his match, and, as I felt strength come back into my hand, and realized that I could clutch it again, I felt coldly confident. Once, twice, I drove my knuckles into his exposed face, compelling him to loosen grip, and throw up his hands in protection. And then I had him; not that he was devoid of skill as a boxer—asid's bewildered and breathless.

"Now, Raymond," I said, "that trick doesn't work a second time. Stand up to it, you coward! You wanted a fight, and you are going to have one. What! The gun again? I guess not."

He had jerked it out before I reached him, but my hand closed over his—the hammer fell, digging into the flesh of my thumb, and the pain maddened me; he staggered back from the impetus of my body, and I tore loose, the iron still imbedded in my flesh, and struck him. The pearl handle crashed to the side of his head, tearing my hand in jagged wound, but he went over, dropping to the grass as if dead. He gave no moan, no sound; for an instant his limbs twitched, and then he lay there, curled into a ball. I stood down at him, panting, scarcely realizing just what had occurred. An instant before he had been fighting like a tiger cat, now he was a motionless, grotesque shadow. Blood streamed from my lacerated hand, and I bound up the wound in a neckerchief stripped from around my throat, hardly conscious of the pain, my breath standing, my muscles growing tense. Then I bent down, and straightened the man out, upturning his face to the moon. He was not dead—there was a beat to his pulse; but the gash on his head was an ugly one; he would have a scar there while he lived. He lay like a dead man, his face ghastly, his thin lips drawn back from his teeth, and seemingly breathless. But for that faint, barely perceptible throb of the pulse, I would have thought him killed.

And now what? Kelly, and his followers, would not be gone long exploring the depths of the ravine—an hour at most would take them over every inch of it. We must have more of a start than that. There were troops yonder. Fox would never worry over the disappearance of Raymond, but Moran might; and he was in command. There was a squad of horsemen out there now, beyond the corner of the church, and riding southward—they might be in search of the missing lieutenant and his three troopers. I dare not leave the fellow where he was to recover consciousness, and give an alarm, or be discovered by others. There were two things possible to do—to roll the body into the ravine, or bear it with me. The first would be murder; the second a tax upon my physical strength which I might not withstand. Yet there was no other way, but to try the experiment.

I tossed the discarded revolver into the bushes, and struggled with the limp body until I was able to rise to my feet with the unconscious man dangling across my shoulder. He was of good girth and weight, but I succeeded in staggering the few yards necessary with the burden, and then, hoisted him across the saddle, head and heels dangling. The horse snorted and circled to get away, frightened at his unusual burden, but I soothed the animal, and finally he snuffed at the man's legs, and stood still.

CHAPTER XXIX.

The Trail to Covington.

As I gripped the horse's rein and turned him slowly around I heard a single shot fired in the gorge below, the sound echoing among the rocks, and a spark of fire gleamed through the darkness. It was far enough away to give me little concern, yet the report must have been heard by the cavalry squad now well out in the open, for they wheeled their horses and rode straight toward the ravine. Their course would bring them higher up, just to the rear of the church, yet, with suspicions once aroused, 'twas likely they would patrol the banks, seeking for some passage below. Confident the distance between us was sufficient to hide my movements so long as I kept well back in the shadow of the trees, I led the horse forward, advancing as rapidly as I dared to travel, using one hand to steady Raymond's body swaying across the saddle. It must have been a quarter of a mile, or more, to where the forest spread out from the bank into a dark tangle of trees, extending half across the ridge. The winding of the ravine took me out of sight of the body of horsemen above, yet I knew they had galloped to the edge of the gorge, and were calling to whoever was below. I could hear the shouts, without catching the words, and even imagined I distinguished a faint cry in return. By slipping the lieutenant's belt over the saddle horn, thus preventing his limp body from sliding off, I urged the animal to a sharp trot.

What was before us in those dark woods was all conjecture—but I possessed infinite confidence in Noreen. The very silence, coupled with the fact that no sign of the two fugitives had been met with along the way, convinced me that they had safely attained the rendezvous, and were now there, anxiously awaiting my arrival.

This time had not been long, and the girl would never consent to proceed alone with Nichols, until she had lost every hope of my joining her. He might not remain willingly in such close proximity of danger, but I could count on her to keep the fellow there until the last possible moment. We went down into a shallow gully, and then climbed the opposite bank, having to force a passage through thick scrub, I pressing the branches aside to prevent their scratching Raymond's face. He gave utterance to a groan, and I lifted his head, supporting it on my shoulder as we topped the rise. The horse shied, I caught glimpse of a shadow flitting across an open space.

"Noreen!"

"Is it really you? I could not tell—the horse; the something across the saddle."

She came forward with a swift spring, not satisfied until her hand actually touched me.

"Oh, I am so glad—you are not even hurt?"

"Not seriously; battered up a bit—Nichols?"

"Yes, he is here; there beside the tree. Tell me what has happened! What have you here? Why it is a man," she shrank back, "a dead man!"

"No, not dead," I hastened to explain, unbuckling the belt, and lowering the still limp body to the ground.

"Here, parson, don't let the horse stray. We cannot waste many minutes here; there are cavalrymen scouting the edge of the ravine yonder, and they may come as far as this. That is why I brought the fellow along—to keep him from being found. Do you recognize the face, Noreen?"

It was dark and shadowy where we were and she was compelled to bend low to distinguish the features. Her lips gave a startled, half-suppressed cry.

"Why it is Lieutenant Raymond! You—you fought together? How did he come here?"

"I think he suspected we might manage to escape from the church. He was more anxious to capture me than he was to fight evidently, for I caught no glimpse of his face during the melee. But he, and three troopers, were hidden at the edge of the woods watching where the trail comes up from the ravine."

"Yes," breathlessly, "we saw them come across, just after the torches began to flare up inside the church. Then later another man rode along there."

"That was Kelly," he brought, word that we had got away. I was within ten feet of them when they met. The lieutenant swore at the news, and sent the four men down the trail to search—he offered one hundred dollars for him, dead or alive."

She arose to her feet, but the darkness prevented my seeing the expression on her face.

"He did! This man?" she exclaimed, the horror of the thought visible in the tone. "Why, what is it to him? I do not understand why he should exhibit such bitterness—he was determined to convict you from the first. There was no feud between you two, was there?"

"Only Noreen Harwood," I answered, speaking softly. "But—look! The cavalry squad just passed across that open space; they are riding this way. Raymond will revive presently, and some of his men will find him here; Kelly will search as soon as he discovers the man is missing. Nichols, fasten the belt about his arms—yes, buckle it behind; a notch tighter. You know the trail?"

"I've been over it enough," rather sullenly. "Is Anne Cowan dead?"

"Yes; but that doesn't affect you at present. You are going to guide us to Covington. Hold the horse. Now Noreen."

She gave me her hand, and I helped her into the saddle. A horse neighed in the distance, but my fingers closed on the nostrils of the animal beside me in time to prevent response. Nichols stood motionless, a tall, shapeless figure, gazing back over the tops of the bushes. I drew my revolver, and touched him with it sharply on the arm.

"Go on," I said quietly, yet with a threat in my voice. "Attempt to run, or play any trick, and I drop you in your tracks."

Strength or Weakness.

Trouble and anxiety are cruel masters, but wonderful teachers; they prepare us to understand the deepest mysteries, they make us strong for the greatest tasks, they open the way to incalculable treasures of sympathy and love. In a world which is fashioned to aid, enrich, and strengthen our spirits nothing comes to us devoid of meaning; everything that meets us challenges us and compels us to choose to become stronger or weaker.

Dinner Stories

"Are you interested in the movement for prison reform?"

"Yes, indeed. So many of our best people are being indicted and convicted nowadays that it's quite necessary to make our prisons more comfortable and homelike."

"Don't complain when the children around you make a little noise," said the man with a kind heart. "Remember you were once a little boy."

"I'm not forgetting it," replied the man with a perpetual frown. "I was one of those little boys who are always compelled to sit around dressed up and watch the other boys having a good time."—Washington Star.

A rich New Yorker had been giving some east side street urchins a day at the beach once a year, the feature of the trip being an ocean bath.

As the patron stood by the car watching the happy little fellows get on, he noticed one especially dirty little fellow and said:

"How is it you are so dirty, son?"

"Please, sir," answered the boy, "I missed the car for the beach last year."

Who Spoils the Children?

There was a discussion held recently among a crowd of men about the spoiling of children. Some of the men said it was the father's fault: "They give the boys about the same amount of time every day that it takes them to shave. If they took the job of father seriously and really put some time and thought on it, there would be a different story." But most of the fellows seemed to blame the mothers.

FINDS HALF A CROP OF APPLES IN EAST

GEORGE J. KELLONG SENDS REPORT OF CONDITIONS IN NEW YORK, OHIO AND MICHIGAN.

LOW PRICE FOR FRUIT

No Market for Peaches Not Even at Canning Factories—Frosts Do Damage to Michigan Buckwheat and Corn.

After an extended tour of the fruit growing sections of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan, George J. Kellong reports that apples this year will be less than half a crop. Peaches are virtually a drug on the market in some places and not even the canning factories are taking the surplus supply. Frosts, he writes, did extensive damage in Michigan to buckwheat, corn and garden truck. Mr. Kellong writes as follows from Shelby, Mich.:

"I have waited until now to get something of a reliable fruit report. All the first reports are just so many guesses, and while I like the rest, put in my guess. It is after extended travel and observation that I strike the apple belt at Niagara Falls, west to the eastern part of Oswego county, N. Y., and after visiting quite extensively in Oswego, Oneida and Madison counties, I returned by way of Fourteen Lakes, 100 miles north of Grand Rapids. Then I went back by way of Luddington into Oceana county, the finest fruit country in this state.

"I came to the conclusion that there is not one-half a full apple crop in the states I have visited. Some good judges put the crop at one-quarter of a crop. In one orchard in Oswego county, where I was visiting, there were only two trees in fourteen acres of apple orchard that had a full crop. The balance of the orchard had hardly any apples. In traveling 130 miles in Michigan, I saw but one more tree with a full crop and there are more trees with nothing than with fruit. There is an occasional orchard that is well loaded, which is accounted for by the fact that the owners have kept the orchard healthy.

"Where I am visiting now the Rider brothers have paid for material to spray this year $125 and the cost of application will make the total $500 on 14 acres of apples, 23 acres of cherries, peaches and plums. They have three-fourths of an apple crop, 1,500 bushels. They have sold $1,000 worth of cherries and their plums are on the market now at $1.40 a bushel. "There is one big orchard of 5,000 bushels of peaches which the owner says, if any one will pay him what he has paid out for help and expenses up to date, they can have the whole crop. The canning factory here that bought a thousand bushels of peaches a day last year, has too large a stock of old goods on hand and are not buying peaches this year. The factories are buying apples at 20 cents a bushel. I have just visited an apple orchard of 2,000 bushels. The owner says he is offered 40 cents a bushel for all above two inches delivered in baskets at depot. Of the apples that will be put on the market, there will be lots of army, unsprayed fruit.

"The best orchardists are holding winter varieties at 80 cents to a dollar a bushel. Add 40 cents cost of barrel, and you can see what No. 1 fruit will be worth. The best Duchess apples bring 20 cents a bushel and no market at that except the factory. The days of big money in fruit seem to be passed. The far western fruit hardly pays transportation. The cherry crop in New York has been the largest growers to put up their crop in crates for the drug trade. This was in Oswego county where that company uses three cars of sugar a year for the canning.

"Growers here hope late peaches will bring one dollar a bushel. The frost of August 27 has ruined thousands of acres of buckwheat, corn, beans and garden truck in Michigan. Near the lake the crops are good. I see no reliable report from Wisconsin of damage by frosts."

Use Salt. To clean willow furniture, scrub well with a coarse brush and water that is strongly saturated with salt. Then dry with a soft cloth. Salt not only cleans willowware, but prevents it from turning yellow. Straw matting may be most successfully cleaned in the same way.

SEEK MORE RECRUITS FROM THE ANTIPODES

No Let Up in the Call for Soldiers in Australia.—Business Men Aid in the Recruiting.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Melbourne, Australia, Sept. 7.—Every thing possible is now being done to get more recruits in Australia—every thing short of conscription itself. There are, after a year of the war, 20,000 Australians under arms, either in the firing line at the Dardanelles or in training camps, but instead of there being any let up in the call for men, the demand for them grows more and more insistent. Although the Ministry of Defense denies that it looks to conscription, a census of unmarried men has just been taken by the police of the various states to determine the fighting strength. The result of this has not been made public. The campaign to enlist volunteers, however, takes on new vigor each day. There are speeches by civil and military authorities; there are newspaper appeals; there are huge advertising posters; there are parades, and there is even the display of wounded soldiers—all to the same end. In this state (Victoria) a recruiting campaign covering the last three weeks of July resulted in more than 15,000 enlistments, a number which it is pointed out, equals the strength of the Australian Imperial force which was sent to Egypt last November. The fact that South Wales is in virtually all things a rival of Victoria—indeed, in certain respects a recruiting campaign which is now in progress there.

Business houses all over Australia are making it easier for young men to enlist by offering them a reward for their old places if they return; and to induce men—even with dependents—to join the colors, the press is at the request of the military authorities, printing almost daily the liberal rates of pay for Australians on active service and the pensions which will be paid the disabled and the relatives of such officers and privates as may be killed.

But the chief appeal is to patriotism, and never have they Antipodes seen such a widespread and ardent use, as nowadays of the Union Jack of the Empire and the southern cross of the young Australian Federation. The government will have comparatively little trouble in clothing the greatly augmented number of volunteers, but it will have considerable difficulty in arming them. It is not improbable that it will have to have the assistance of the Imperial Government in this respect.

Meanwhile wounded men are beginning to be brought back all the way from the Gallipoli peninsula in fair numbers. By November it is likely that with cooler weather in the Red Sea many more will be returned home. Elaborate preparations have been made for the care and treatment of these soldiers. In order to raise funds for this, July 29 was chosen as "Australia Day" and every conceivable contribution was obtained and solicited. Contributions were employed on that date from one end of the Commonwealth to the other. Melbourne and Sydney resembled nothing so much as huge county fairs. The result of the patriotic charity was a sum which at this writing—with the returns not yet in from many sections—amounts to nearly $4,000,000.

STATE FAIR STOCK WILL GO TO 'FRISCO

Wisconsin's Exhibit at Exposition Will Consist of Prize Winners

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Sept. 7.—If the plan is followed, which is now being considered by the committee in charge of Wisconsin's Live stock exhibit at the Panama-Pacific exposition, the state will be represented by a "hand-picked" display. It is proposed that first consideration be given to any animal which has won a prize in the Wisconsin state contests at Milwaukee. In case an exhibitor owning an animal, which is not placed at West Allis decides to enter it in the San Francisco show and should not be able to do so, the expense of transportation would then be met. If, after meeting the transportation expense of prize winners, there should be money left in the fund, this would be divided among the owners of animals, which received favorable consideration from the judges at the Panama-Pacific exposition. The committee which has charge of the exhibit, representative of San Francisco in October and November is: George McKerrrow, Pewaukee; Charles Herr, Lodi; L. P. Martiny, Chippewa Falls; James Z. McVay, Janesville, and A. W. Hopkins, Madison.

OHIO COLLEGES AID AGRICULTURAL WORK

Co-operate With State Agricultural School to Provide Course for Prospective Farmers.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Columbus, O., Sept. 7.—An educational alliance has been formed between ten of the small colleges of Ohio and the state agricultural college. Following a plan worked out by Alfred Vivian, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and a native of Mineral Point, Wis., a working agreement has been made whereby combination courses are given in the two co-operating institutions. Upon visiting several of the denominational colleges of Ohio, Mr. Vivian found many students who were anxious to pursue courses in agriculture if such could be offered. Many of the students in these small colleges are recruited from the farm and of course should have an educational opportunity to consider it as life work.

Accordingly, Mr. Vivian proposed that the students work in the general courses for three years in their home or local colleges. This he argued would give them a good foundation in the sciences and the subjects which are generally classed as cultural. Upon completing the three years' work the students are returned to the college of agriculture, where they will pursue studies relating to technical agriculture, such as livestock breeding, soil fertility, agricultural economics, fruit raising, and farm engineering. It is believed will save money both to the college of agriculture, which is supported by state appropriation, and the home college, which draws its funds from

AUCTIONS

Now that harvest is nearly or entirely over auction sales will take their places on the farmer's calendar.

Those planning for an auction this fall will do well to get started early and have the advantage of a clearer field and less opposition.

The Janesville Gazette has a little booklet entitled, "Auctions and how to prepare for them" which will be sent upon request.

The auction directory will be resumed again. This was a great success last season as it acted as a clearing house for auctioneers and prevented auctions being held near each other on the same date. Send in your dates and address.

The value of the Janesville Gazette as an advertising medium was demonstrated again and again. Little or no bills being required where the sale was advertised in the paper which goes into majority of homes in Rock and surrounding counties.

The rates are $4 for one insertion, $6 for two, $9 for three, etc. for a ten inch advertisement reproducing the whole list.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, Sept. 7, 1875.—The front of Mr. Thomas Leech's store is being adorned with a coat of paint. The state fair brought the regular rain, which began to fall this afternoon at two o'clock. We don't believe that it is in the recollection of the oldest inhabitant when it did not rain during the state fair in Wisconsin. Hon. A. M. Thomson of Milwaukee, formerly editor of the Gazette, of this city, was in town today and gave us a welcome call.

Dr. Whiting and other delegates to the democratic show which opens in Milwaukee tomorrow, started for that city today. It is useless waste of time and money for delegates to go to Milwaukee; the slate was fixed up long ago, and delegates can't change it. Philadelphia, Sept. 7.—The agent of the American line steamers has the following from Liverpool: The peaches on the steamer Ohio were rotten on arrival, but kept in perfect order until the second of September. The ice supply was exhausted on the 29th of August.

Allow Runs.

Johns' Boats Freely.
Errors and misplays flourished in the scare and had the Cardinals had better coaching on the bases, the score would have been about 10-0. Johnson, the new Cardinals shortstop, can go back to Chicago and stay there for evermore for all the Janscivian fans care, for he booted four the last time he batted. He was only an unsteady man on the Cardinals team, but as on Sunday, he came through with a double in a pinch. "Denny" Blake was right on the money in the game, hitting three home runs, three assists and three good ones, which skidded the game to Janscivian. Curtis was a hitting star, getting to the first base in the first and being drilled well out in the center garden. The Cardinals started after Miller in the first inning when Blake singled with two down, but he was left stranded when John Janscivian and Delano wallowed down short and caught the runner. In the second inning, Delano walked and Driscoll kidded Miller to giving him a free ticket. Miller caught Delano's long ball, first baseman's hit put Driscoll on second. Curtis fanned, ending the inning. He loit got a good start in the third when he pitcher first up and onto the bases, but he was out on a whistling faked splitter out to Kernan and Miller popped one down to second while Johnson booted and the run scored. Miller was one out from winning. The bloody fourth quieted the Beloit fans, for the Cardinals brought out the wrecking crew and wallowed to beat the Cardinals. The last of the four runs Blake started. He was as he always does. He slammed one down to second and Keene booted the ball. Johnson followed with a double that landed Blake on third. Delano walked, Miller booted and the Cardinals to keep peace in the family. W shudder to think what would have happened if Blake was given an op portunity of putting the ball on the Beloit catcher.

Our Store Idea

This store is founded on the idea of "Service to the Public" — service of a high type, based on absolute integrity. This means and includes

- dependable merchandise, fresh, new, desirable
- wide selection in the various stocks
- a close connection with the world's style originators and manufacturing centers.
- prices fair to the customer.
- understating rather than overstating of the value or desirability of merchandise, whether in spoken or written words.
- a liberality in dealing
- uniform courtesy throughout the store.
- excellent store accommodations and conveniences.

Because of a studious application of this "idea" the store is constantly increasing the number of its patrons.
